Has traditional medicine left you feeling like a holiday turkey?

Turkey is great holiday dinner fare but not when a doctor hands a suffering soul a medical “verdict” that makes them feel like one. Typically something along the line of “There is nothing more medical science has to offer.” Sadly, most people take this sort of pronouncement as gospel especially when it comes to treatments. Some get a second or even third opinion but when the “bottom line” keeps coming back the same they tend to accept this as final. In many instances their doctors know they could try certain FDA drugs “off-label” (to treat things they were not officially approved for) and some are even aware of effective natural products & compounds they could use, but will not use these because it might somehow place them at odds with the medical mainstream or rise liability fears. Thankfully though, some doctors are not afraid to go the extra mile by taking what works from conventional medicine and using this “on” or “off label” alone or in combination with whatever works from the world of natural medicine. Not surprisingly, history shows that many major discoveries and innovations in medicine originated with this sort of creative in-office experimentation.

However, of those doctors willing to press the envelope only a handful have the knowledge, experience & sheer creativity to come up with treatment regimens that produce significant healing outcomes.

On-the-other-hand there is a handful of physicians who have gone outside what their peers consider “the medical practice comfort zone” and become experts in things like nutrition, herbal medicine, stem cells and more and then “work the angles” to tinker & tool them together in ways that bring about healing in “unhealables.” Some are more creative and driven than others. One of the truly stellar ones is Dr. David Steenblock.

Here are just a few of the powerful things Dr. Steenblock adroitly uses to take people from the land of “nothing more medical science can do” to one of improvements and healing:

Stem Cells: Dr. Steenblock pioneered taking patients own stem cell-rich bone marrow and giving it back to them. He has done over 1000 such treatments since 2005. In addition, he figured out how to use the FDA approved stem cell mobilizer Neupogen® to purge senescent (old, devitalized) stem cells from the bone marrow of older folks. This, he found, prods the marrow to replace these stem cells with new, robust ones (He then painlessly removes marrow teeming with these vital stem cells and infuses or injects it.) He is also an acknowledged expert in the therapeutic use of umbilical cord stem cells.

Hyperbaric Oxygen Therapy (HBOT): Many chronic diseases involve a lack of oxygen to particular tissues and organs. HBOT floods the body with life-sustaining oxygen.

External Counterpulsation (EECP): This FDA approved treatment actually promotes the growth of new blood vessels. Many doctors refer it a “natural bypass.”

Pulsed Electromagnetic Therapy: PEMF is an FDA approved treatment for certain bone fractures. Dr. Steenblock has found that PEMF and hyperbaric oxygen work synergistically to step up healing in certain chronic health conditions.

Periodic Acceleration Therapy: In PAT patients lie on a sophisticated platform and get a moderate cardiovascular workout. This prods blood vessels to produce Nitric Oxide (NO), a chemical that confers all kinds of health benefits including facilitating better blood flow body-wide. NO also plays a role in mobilizing a person’s own stem cells from their bone marrow.
